Homework: Functions of my Emotions (Homework 1.1.3)

Choose three of the following emotions and describe the last time you can recall feeling that way. Identify what you wanted to do when you experienced this emotion and whether this resulted in action (e.g., Love – Last Wednesday, I had the urge to communicate how much my partner means to me and surprise her with a gift. I purchased tickets to see a movie she was talking about and arranged a dinner/movie night).

- Fear Last Monday I felt fear because I had a drive test and had lost my license. I wanted to just not show up but I did anyway. What I ended up doing was going into the office, filled out a few paperwork and ended up being redirected to the DMV to obtain a temporary license.
- Anger Last Friday I felt anger when I walked into a Fedex office requiring help ~~on the~~ on printing out some documentation. I was met with terrible customer service, and was spoken to in a brash tone. This triggered my anger, so I walked out of the office, walked across the street to decompress.
- Disgust → I felt disgust this morning at how dirty my vehicle appeared. The emotion-driven behavior is that I cleaned it up.
- Sadness Last Sunday I felt sadness when I witnessed Cleveland Browns Quarterback Deshaun Watson get hurt and fall to the ground. Immediately thereafter the very own Cleveland Browns fans cheered at Deshaun Watson's injury, and their cheers got significantly louder when he was placed on a cart and ~~was~~ was being wheeled off the field.
- Shame Last time I felt significant shame was during sentencing in January 2023. What I wanted to do was ~~very~~ magically disappear. Ultimately I had to sit with those feelings for the duration of my Victim statement.
- Guilt This past Tuesday I felt guilty for leaving weights on the floor without re-racking the weights. I ended up going back to where the weights were at and re-racked them.

- Jealousy Last Month I felt jealous seeing younger people than me who have reached a respectful amount success before me.

- Envy Yesterday I felt envious of Kim Kardashians level of success. I try not to be envious but often ask myself what I can do to achieve that same level of comfort as others.

- Love Before group I felt love for my favorite artist and just the way his art illicit feelings of happiness while listening to it.

- Happiness Felt happy today while driving around town listening to music. I wanted to continue driving.
