Good morning Dr. Mason,

Thank you again for your ongoing review of my CASOMB complaint and for your recent follow-up correspondence. I appreciate your time and attention to these issues.

Consistent with the desired outcomes identified in my complaint, I respectfully request that CASOMB consider authorizing a temporary telehealth accommodation as part of the resolution process for my required treatment participation at HOPE Psychotherapy, Inc. (Stockton program).

In the alternative, following completion of CASOMB's investigation and any compliance review, I respectfully request that CASOMB recommend or direct appropriate accommodations necessary to ensure continued treatment participation in a safe, non-retaliatory, and clinically appropriate manner, including authorization for participation via HIPAA-compliant telehealth if deemed appropriate under CASOMB guidelines.

This request is not an attempt to avoid treatment; rather, I am seeking to continue participating in the same required curriculum through HIPAA-compliant video telehealth so that treatment can proceed safely and consistently while my complaint is under review.

The hardship factors supporting this request include: (1) ongoing conflict and retaliation concerns involving program leadership, which have made in-person participation difficult and stressful; (2) active safety concerns at the facility currently under review by local authorities, including lighting conditions in stairwell egress areas; (3) significant clinician turnover and continuity-of-care issues affecting treatment stability; and (4) the absence of an individualized treatment plan or meaningful progress review process, as described in my complaint materials.

Video telehealth would still allow clinicians to observe my participation, engagement, and responsiveness, while substantially reducing the hardship and risk associated with in-person attendance under current conditions. I remain willing to comply fully with all treatment requirements, containment expectations, and supervision conditions.

If helpful, I am willing to provide any additional documentation or consent needed for CASOMB to coordinate with the provider agency and my supervising officer regarding this request. Thank you again for your attention and for your work on this matter.

Respectfully,

Brendan Ngehsi Newanforbi
