Matter 29 Discovery Deployment Plan

Case No. 4:26-cv-09249-ASK · Magistrate Judge Ajay S. Krishnan (all parties consented, Dkts. 11, 14) · DRAFT — NOT FILED OR SERVED

Status — drafts not served or filed

This packet consists of six written discovery sets, a Rule 26(f) ESI discussion proposal, two held Rule 30(b)(6) outlines, and separate delivery/service records. All six sets are dated October 20, 2026 and carry Plaintiff's signature image for review; none has been delivered or served by preparation or repository storage of this packet.

Matter and planning dates

N.D. Cal. 4:26-cv-09249-ASK; Magistrate Judge Ajay S. Krishnan. The Matter 29 portfolio calendar lists November 10, 2026 as the Rule 26(f) meet-and-confer and ADR certification target; November 24 for initial disclosures and the joint CMC statement; and December 1 for the initial CMC. Confirm the actual conference date and any superseding orders before deployment.

Deployment sequence

1. Confirm operative docket caption and the name Plaintiff will use for his signature. The operative caption uses BRENDAN NGEHSI NEWANFORBI and names DOES 1-10, inclusive. Signature blocks use Brendan Ngehsi Newanforbi, matching the caption. Update all sets consistently if a conforming order changes the caption.

2. Review the signed RFP sets (dated October 20, 2026, 21 days before the November 10 Rule 26(f) target) for Rule 26(g) compliance. Deliver early under Rule 26(d)(2) if the timing and applicable orders permit. Record DELIVERY, not service. Properly delivered early requests are deemed SERVED at the first actual Rule 26(f) conference.

3. Use the ESI proposal to confer on repositories, native formats, retention, confidentiality, time zones, and production dates. Request a crosswalk between Amazon's and Accurate's identifiers for the same screening order.

4. At or after the Rule 26(f) conference, sign and serve the interrogatory and admission sets separately under Rules 33 and 36. Early-delivery treatment under Rule 26(d)(2) does not apply to interrogatories or RFAs.

5. Confirm that email service is expressly agreed or otherwise legally authorized. ECF notice of a filed document does not replace valid service of unfiled discovery. Keep timestamped delivery/service evidence.

6. Provide editable Word copies alongside PDFs, consistent with Magistrate Judge Krishnan's standing order. Discovery is generally served on counsel rather than filed unless directed or needed in a discovery dispute.

7. Audit the initial responses and productions, issue focused deficiency correspondence, meet and confer in real time, and use the court-directed joint discovery-letter procedure when appropriate. Do not serve the held Rule 30(b)(6) outlines without setting appropriate logistics and refining topics.

Counsel routing — verify counsel of record and service consent

Amazon: Andrew P. Frederick, andrew.frederick@morganlewis.com; douglass.brown@morganlewis.com; suga.ikeda@morganlewis.com (Morgan Lewis); plus any designated service counsel.

Accurate: John Drury, JDrury@seyfarth.com; Jasmine J. Stanzick, jstanzick@seyfarth.com; and any designated service counsel.

Response timing

Rule 34 responses ordinarily are due 30 days after service, or 30 days after the first Rule 26(f) conference for properly delivered early requests. Rules 33 and 36 ordinarily permit 30 days after service. A stipulation or court order may change timing. If the first conference is November 10 and no altered period applies, December 10, 2026 is an illustrative early-RFP response date.

High-impact record targets

Amazon: RFPs A-02, A-04, A-05, A-06 and A-08.

Accurate: RFPs B-02, B-03, B-05, B-09 and B-12.

Cross-reference exact status changes, report versions, transmission and access logs, original applicant data, and the Santa Clara criminal-component timeline before considering amendments or depositions.

Review flags before sending

- Do not serve held deposition outlines as notices. Date, location, appearance platform, and recording methods remain open.
- Evaluate whether the November 15 upper date for some requests should be adjusted or supplemented for newly created responsive materials.
- Keep the October 14 preservation and consumer file requests distinct from formal Rule 34 discovery.
- Verify court source material before asserting that a criminal disposition date, parole status, or recorded conviction answer is inaccurate.
- Do not give opposing counsel control over Plaintiff's signature. Signature blocks carry Plaintiff's own portfolio signature image (internal/assets/signature/brendan-newanforbi-signature.png), affixed by the build script; the Section B service certificates remain unsigned until actual service.

Rule 26(f) ESI Meet-and-Confer Proposal

DRAFT FOR CONFERENCE — NOT A STIPULATION. Case 4:26-cv-09249-ASK (N.D. Cal.), Magistrate Judge Ajay S. Krishnan.

Plaintiff proposes the following targeted electronic discovery protocol pursuant to Rule 26(f), the Northern District of California ESI Guidelines, and the Court's Civil Standing Order. No item below is binding absent agreement or order.

1. Systems, custodians, and scope

Amazon: Simple Hire; ATS/recruiting; workforce staffing and shift scheduling; background-screening integration; HR screening review; email and internal chat for assigned recruiters and reviewers.

Accurate: Order management; component vendor/court searches; identity matching; case management; report generation/distribution; dispute intake; applicant portal; relevant business email for order 496623722.

2. Preservation

Preserve nonprivileged responsive records and reasonably available historical versions from July 1, 2026 through final disposition of the screening and dispute. Preserve report/version IDs, field histories, actor IDs, status transitions, API messages, system and vendor event logs, attachments, template variants, and communications. Disclose auto-deletion cycles and any necessary targeted suspension of deletion.

3. ESI formats and metadata

- Email: Native EML/MSG with attachments, full headers, and available metadata.
- Structured application and screening data: CSV or JSON with field names, original timestamps, time zones, and record IDs.
- PDFs: Searchable copies and native originals when PDF conversion obscures significant properties.
- Technical documentation: Codebooks, event types, abbreviations, system identifiers, and report-version IDs.
- Explain each material source that cannot export in native or reasonably usable format.

4. Searches and transparency

Search by Plaintiff's relevant name variants and order 496623722, related component IDs, spelling “NEWANSORBI,” dates, and positions. For disputed gaps, identify repositories, search methods, time ranges, custodians, and retention limitations. Deduplicate exact copies while retaining distinct report versions and meaningful event differences.

5. Schedule and privilege

Propose first-wave Rule 34 responses within 30 days of the Rule 26(f) conference if delivered in advance under Rule 26(d)(2). Prefer rolling production for applicant-specific source records. Discuss dates for interim and final privilege logs under Rule 26(b)(5) and a possible FRE 502(d) order.

6. Confidentiality

Discuss using an appropriate Northern District protective order addressing identifiers, screening records, proprietary source-system details, and internal decision records. Confidentiality should not become an indefinite barrier to otherwise discoverable materials.

7. Early production priorities

- Amazon: Application input; July 27 shift-change record and reason; Accurate screening receipt, status, and notes.

- Accurate: All report versions; Santa Clara component logs; October 13 package review; October 14 notices; alias provenance; transmission logs.
- Obtain a common system-identifier crosswalk from both defendants.

8. Questions for the conference

1. What is the actual date of the first Rule 26(f) conference?
2. Which platform and secure transfer method will each defendant use?
3. Who are the system custodians and technical points of contact?
4. Will the parties adopt a preservation and ESI protocol?
5. Is a protective order necessary for particular information?
6. What is the initial production date and when will missing report versions be revisited?
