Kim for the purpose of holding proceedings related to: discovery supervision and scheduling, to set a deadline to file amended pleadings, to set a dispositive motions schedule, and for settlement. (rao,) (Entered: 03/07/2023)
03/07/2023	16	MINUTE entry before the Honorable Young B. Kim: Parties are to complete their settlement discussions by April 7, 2023, and then adhere to the following written discovery schedule if the matter cannot be resolved: (1) exchange Rule 26(a)(1) disclosures by April 14, 2023; (2) serve written discovery requests by April 21, 2023 (requests to admit may be timely served before the end of fact discovery); (3) serve answers to written discovery requests by May 19, 2023; (4) confer about the adequacy of the discovery responses by June 2, 2023; and (5) file a joint status report identifying each side's written discovery issues (must identify the specific interrogatories and requests to produce), along with the relevant written discovery responses as exhibits, by June 9, 2023. The court will not consider general objections to written discovery requests if the court must address and rule on written discovery disputes. If the parties do not have any disputed written discovery issues, a status report is not required. Pursuant to Rule of Evidence 502(d), this court orders that inadvertent disclosures of attorney-client privileged and attorney work materials will not constitute a waiver of the associated privilege. The court further orders that upon written notification (including emails) from the opposing side that an inadvertent disclosure has occurred, the party shall return and/or destroy the materials at issue or file a motion for a determination on the claimed privilege within seven calendar days of the written notification. Parties are to file their stipulation to dismiss with the assigned District Judge as soon as possible. If the parties wish for the court to retain jurisdiction,

		(R. 17 at 1), this court advises the parties that the dismissal must be without prejudice with leave to reinstate the case---by a date certain---solely for purposes of enforcing the terms of the settlement. This way, the court may retain jurisdiction to enforce the terms of the agreement for a finite period of time, but the underlying matter may not be reinstated.
