Attorneys for Defendant
KATIE PALACIOS and
HOPE PROGRAM, A LICENSED CLINICAL SOCIAL WORKER PROFESSIONAL CORPORATION (sued and served as The Hope Program)

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

COUNTY OF SAN JOAQUIN

BRENDAN NGEHSI NEWANFORBI, Plaintiff, v. KATIE PALACIOS, Clinical Director, HOPE Program (Stockton, California), an individual; HOPE PSYCHOTHERAPY, INC., d/b/a HOPE PROGRAM, a California corporation; and DOES 1-10, inclusive, Defendants.	Case No.: STK-CV-UF-2026-0001032 DEFENDANT KATIE PALACIOS' RESPONSES TO PLAINTIFF'S REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS, SET ONE Complaint Filed: February 10, 2026 Trial Date: TBD

PROPOUNDING PARTY: Plaintiff BRENDAN NGEHSI NEWANFORBI

RESPONDING PARTY: Defendant KATIE PALICIOS

SET NO: ONE

Defendant KATIE PALACIOS ("PALACIOS" or "Defendant" or "Responding Party") hereby objects and responds to Plaintiff BRENDAN NGEHSI NEWANFORBI's ("Propounding Party") Request for Production of Documents, Set One, as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

The following responses are made solely for the purpose of this pending action. Documents eventually produced in response to the Requests for Production and any individual request therein, are subject to admissibility, as well as to any and all other objections on any grounds that would require the exclusion of any statement therein if the information were introduced in court. All objections and grounds for such objections are expressly reserved and may be interposed at the time of any motion or trial.

These responses are based on discovery available as of the date hereof. Discovery is continuing, and these responses are accordingly subject to revision. Further discovery, independent investigation, and analysis may supply additional facts and add meaning to known facts, as well as establish entirely new factual conclusions and legal contentions, all of which may lead to additions, changes to, or variations from the information set forth herein. These responses are given without prejudice to Defendant's right to produce, respond, or rely on subsequently discovered information, facts, or documents. Defendant accordingly reserves the right to change the response herein as additional facts are ascertained, analysis is made, legal research is completed, and contentions are made. The responses contained herein are made in a good faith effort to comply with the provisions of the California Rules of Civil Procedure but are in no way deemed to prejudice Defendant with respect to further discovery, research, and analysis.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 1:

All e-mails sent or received by YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD, in any e-mail account (including any HOPE-issued account and any personal account used for HOPE-related business), REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, in native format with metadata.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 1:

Objection. This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the term "HOPE-issued account," overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 2:

All text messages, instant messages, Slack messages, Microsoft Teams messages, WhatsApp messages, Signal messages, or other electronic chat messages sent or received by YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 2:

Objection. This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "electronic chat message," overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US

Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. Responding Party objects that this request is compound, disjunct, and joins multiple distinct inquiries into a single question, making it difficult to provide a complete and accurate response to each component. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 3:

All voicemails sent to or received by YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, including any transcripts.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 3:

Objection. This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the term "transcripts," overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 4:

All COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and PLAINTIFF during the RELEVANT PERIOD, in any medium.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 4:

Objection. This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "in any medium," overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 5:

All COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and any CDCR/DAPO parole agent (including without limitation Agents Magana, Arestad, Acierto, Urrea, Long Moua, Chow, Noguchi, and Derrick) during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 5:

Objection. This request is overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 6:

All COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and any other HOPE clinician, supervisor, or staff member during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 6:

Objection. This request is overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 7:

All COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and the HOPE clinician identified as "Bernadette" during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, including supervision notes, e-mails, text messages, and meeting agendas.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 7:

Objection. This request is overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Responding Party object that the request seeks information in violation of an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 8:

All notes, memoranda, reflections, or session summaries that YOU created or maintained during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, including handwritten notes, typed notes, voice memos, and electronic notes.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 8:

Objection. This request is vague and ambiguous as to "reflections" and unintelligible as phrased. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 9:

All calendar entries (Outlook, Google, paper, or otherwise) for the RELEVANT PERIOD reflecting YOUR meetings, sessions, calls, or other appointments REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 9:

Objection. This request is overbroad as to time, subject matter, and scope. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 10:

Any personal journal, diary, or log entries created by YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, the BLANKET RETENTION POLICY, DWYER, or this litigation.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 10:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "personal journal, diary, or log entries," and overbroad as to time and scope. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 11:

All work files YOU maintained during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, including any segregated file, hot file, supervisory file, or shadow file.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 11:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "segregated file, hot file, supervisory file, or shadow file," and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 12:

All FORM 3043 documents, including drafts, revision histories, and notes, that YOU prepared, reviewed, signed, or contributed to concerning PLAINTIFF during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 12:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "revision histories" and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 13:

All FORM 1502-DR documents, including drafts, narrative inputs, and supporting materials, on which YOU provided input or which YOU received concerning PLAINTIFF.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 13:

Objection: This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "narrative inputs, and supporting materials." Responding Party objects that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. Responding Party also objects that this request is compound, conjunct, disjunct, and improperly joins multiple distinct inquiries into a single question, making it difficult to provide a complete and accurate response to each component.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 14:

All notes, agendas, and follow-up summaries YOU prepared for or after every CTM concerning PLAINTIFF during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 14:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "follow-up summaries," unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 15:

All audio recordings, video recordings, transcripts, drafts, and notes for the August 2025 CTM concerning PLAINTIFF (FAC ¶ 24) and the August 2025 group session at which YOU stated, in substance, that HOPE "routinely loses client homework packets" (FAC ¶ 22).

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 15:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "follow-up summaries," unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Responding Party objects that this request calls for an assumption, specifically that Responding Party made the alleged statement.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 16:

DOCUMENTS sufficient to show every component of YOUR compensation from HOPE during the RELEVANT PERIOD, including W-2s, 1099s, year-end compensation summaries, paystubs, bonus calculations, profit-sharing distributions, retention-payment agreements, and equity grants.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 16:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the term "component," and overbroad as to time and scope. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that the requested information, including W-2s, 1099s, year-end compensation summaries, paystubs, bonus calculations, profit-sharing distributions, retention-payment agreements, and equity grants constitute confidential business information or trade secrets under CCP § 2019.210 and CCP § 2019.215. Disclosure would cause substantial harm to Responding Party's business or personal interests. As such, these items should be excluded from discovery unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 17:

All employment agreements, offer letters, compensation plans, bonus plans, profit-sharing agreements, performance-evaluation criteria, and incentive arrangements applicable to YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 17:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "incentive arrangements," and overbroad as to time and scope. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that the requested information, including compensation plans, bonus plans, profit-sharing arrangements, performance-evaluation criteria, and incentive arrangements constitute confidential business information or trade secrets under CCP § 2019.210 and CCP § 2019.215. Disclosure would cause substantial harm to Responding Party's business or personal interests. As such, these items should be excluded from discovery unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 18:

All performance evaluations, performance-review documents, supervisory feedback, and 360-degree reviews concerning YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 18:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the term "360-degree reviews," and overbroad as to time and scope. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that the requested information, including performance evaluations, performance-review documents, supervisory feedback, and 360-degree reviews constitute confidential business information or trade secrets under CCP § 2019.210 and CCP § 2019.215. Disclosure would cause substantial harm to Responding Party's business or personal interests. As such, these items should be excluded from discovery unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 19:

All DOCUMENTS reflecting any compensation component, bonus, commission, or other payment to YOU that was tied, in whole or in part, to client census, client retention, sessions delivered, CTMs attended, site-level revenue, or any comparable metric.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 19:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the term "component," and overbroad as to time and scope. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that the requested information, compensation component, bonus, commission, or other payments constitute confidential business information or trade secrets under CCP § 2019.210 and CCP § 2019.215. Disclosure would cause substantial harm to Responding Party's business or personal interests. As such, these items should be excluded from discovery unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 20:

All DOCUMENTS in YOUR possession, custody, or control REFERRING TO DWYER, including the March 20, 2023 order, hearing transcripts, briefing, internal HOPE memoranda, training materials, and any e-mails or text messages YOU received or sent REFERRING TO DWYER.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 20:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, an unintelligible as to the term undefined phrase "internal HOPE memoranda" and "board materials," and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this request assumes facts not in evidence, calls for speculation, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. To the extent that any requested documents are already in the possession of Requesting Party, or publicly accessible through other means, Responding Party also objects to this request on that basis.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows:

After a diligent search and reasonable inquire Responding Party cannot comply with this request as such documents never existed.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 21:

All DOCUMENTS in YOUR possession, custody, or control REFERRING TO 15 C.C.R. section 3574 and the April 17, 2025 amendments thereto, including internal memoranda, board materials, training materials, and policy revisions.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 21:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "internal memoranda" and "board materials," and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this request assumes facts not in evidence, calls for speculation, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. To the extent that any requested documents are already in the possession of Requesting Party, or publicly accessible through other means, Responding Party also objects to this request on that basis.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows:

After a diligent search and reasonable inquire Responding Party cannot comply with this request as such documents never existed.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 22:

All training materials, continuing-education records, certificates, and attendance records from any training, conference, or webinar YOU attended during the RELEVANT PERIOD that addressed treatment-completion criteria, discharge planning, or the relationship between treatment completion and parole discharge.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 22:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "treatment completion criteria," unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 23:

DOCUMENTS sufficient to show YOUR current and historical professional licenses, registrations, and CASOMB certifications during the RELEVANT PERIOD, including any disciplinary action, complaint, investigation, or restriction.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 23:

Objection. This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "historical professional licenses," and overbroad in scope and time. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. To the extent that any requested documents are already in the possession of Requesting Party, or publicly accessible through other means, Responding Party also objects to this request on that basis.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 24:

All DOCUMENTS reflecting any prior or pending lawsuit, administrative complaint, licensing complaint, parolee grievance, or formal complaint filed against YOU during the RELEVANT PERIOD relating to YOUR clinical or supervisory conduct.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 24:

Objection. This request is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "parolee grievance," and overbroad in scope and time. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. To the extent that any requested documents are already in the possession of Requesting Party, or publicly accessible through other means, Responding Party also objects to this request on that basis.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 25:

YOUR personnel file maintained by HOPE, including hiring documents, performance evaluations, disciplinary records, and any complaints filed against YOU.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 25:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "personnel file" and overbroad as to time and scope. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and a third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Further objection is made that the requested information, including hiring documents, performance evaluations, disciplinary records, and complaints constitute confidential business information or trade secrets under CCP § 2019.210 and CCP § 2019.215. Disclosure would cause substantial harm to Responding Party's business or personal interests. As such, these items should be excluded from discovery unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 26:

All continuing-education records, training certificates, and CE credit logs YOU maintained during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 26:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "CE credit logs," unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party. Respondent further objects that this discovery request seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and a third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 27:

All e-mails, text messages, and notes prepared by YOU between July 1, 2025 and September 30, 2025 REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF, his complaints, his alleged influence on other participants, or preparation for the August 2025 CTM.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 27:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "alleged influence," unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Objection. Further objection is made that this request calls for expert IT opinion and is unduly burdensome and oppressive. Responding Party also objects to the extent that this request seeks information unrelated to the subject matter of Plaintiff's lawsuit. Further, this request fails to state with reasonable particularity the items being sought. Responding Party also objects to this request to the extent it seeks documents and/or items protected from disclosure by the attorney-client and/or attorney work product privileges in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. Responding Party objects to this Request to the extent it demands the production of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) within an unreasonable timeframe. Given the volume of data, the necessity of identifying custodians, running search terms, and conducting a thorough privilege review, the demanded timeframe is inherently unreasonable, unduly burdensome, and oppressive. Responding Party further objects to this Request as premature and unduly burdensome because the Propounding Party has failed to meaningfully meet and confer regarding an ESI protocol, including the identification of custodians, relevant date ranges, search terms, and a phased production schedule, as contemplated by the California Discovery Act and CRC 3.724.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 28:

All disciplinary records, behavioral notes, group-session notes, and individual-session notes prepared or maintained by YOU REFERRING TO any alleged disruptive, ringleading, abhorrent, or disrespectful conduct by PLAINTIFF in HOPE sessions.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 28:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "disciplinary records" unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 29:

All DOCUMENTS REFERRING TO any complaint, grievance, objection, or request made by PLAINTIFF to YOU or in YOUR presence at any time during the RELEVANT PERIOD regarding HOPE's retention policy, lost or mishandled homework, clinician turnover, phase progression, treatment completion, or any other aspect of HOPE's program.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 29:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "clinician turnover," unintelligible as phrased, and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 30:

All audio recordings, video recordings, transcripts, and notes of any HOPE group session at the STOCKTON FACILITY during the RELEVANT PERIOD that YOU led or in which YOU participated and PLAINTIFF was present.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 30:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous, and unintelligible as to the phrase "led," and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030 and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844; Younger v. Berkeley City Council (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 825, 832. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Pursuant to the above objections Responding Party cannot and will not respond.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 31:

All DOCUMENTS in YOUR possession, custody, or control REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF's status as a CDL holder, his commercial-trucking employment, his employer relationships (including United Road, Keurig Dr Pepper, Tiger Lines LLC, US-1 Shorthaul, Lazer Spot, Inc., and Centerline Drivers), his missed sessions, his schedule conflicts, or his requests for accommodation.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 31:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "employer relationships," and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 32:

All DOCUMENTS reflecting any accommodation, alternative schedule, telehealth option, or other modification YOU offered or made available to PLAINTIFF during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 32:

Objection. This request is objected to on the grounds that it is vague, ambiguous as to the phrase "accommodation," and overbroad as to time and scope. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant to the claims at issue in this case, is burdensome and oppressive, and places an undue burden and expense on Responding Party.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 33:

All COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and any CDCR/DAPO parole agent during the RELEVANT PERIOD REFERRING TO PLAINTIFF's missed sessions, employment, or any threatened or actual parole-violation consequence arising from missed HOPE sessions.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 33:

Objection. This request is vague and ambiguous as to the phrase "any threatened or actual parole-violation consequence," and unintelligible as phrased. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 34:

All HOPE attendance records for PLAINTIFF in YOUR possession, custody, or control during the RELEVANT PERIOD.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 34:

Objection. This request is vague and ambiguous as to the phrase "attendance records," and unintelligible as phrased. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it seeks information that is irrelevant and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Further objection is made that this discovery request seeks the production of documents protected by the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Subject to and without waiving the aforementioned objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Responding Party will produce non-privileged and relevant responsive documents in its possession, custody, or control upon the entry of a protective order.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 35:

All DOCUMENTS YOU have reviewed, gathered, or relied upon in preparation for this litigation that have not been produced in response to any other request herein, except DOCUMENTS subject to a properly asserted claim of privilege identified on a privilege log.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 35:

Objection. This request is vague and ambiguous as to the phrase "properly asserted claim," and unintelligible as phrased. This request is also objected to on the grounds that it is overbroad and unduly burdensome and seeks information that is irrelevant and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence to the extent it seeks "all documents" without reasonable limitation as to time, scope, or subject matter. Further objection is made that this request seeks the production of documents protected by attorney-client privileged, the attorney-work-product privilege in violation of Code of Civil Procedure sections 2018.020 and 2018.030, and an employee and third party's right of privacy in violation of the California Constitution, Article One, Section One as well as the US Constitution, see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 US 479, 484. See also, Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal.3d 844.

Pursuant to the above objections, Responding Party cannot and will not respond.
