BRENDAN NGEHSI NEWANFORBI, Plaintiff, v. FEDERAL EXPRESS CORPORATION, and DOES 1 through 10, inclusive, Defendants.	Case No. 2:26-cv-02881-DAD-SCR PLAINTIFF'S INITIAL RULE 26(a)(1) DISCLOSURES Complaint Filed: July 15, 2026 Trial Date: Not Set

Plaintiff Brendan Ngehsi Newanforbi provides the following initial disclosures under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(a)(1). These disclosures are based on information reasonably available at this stage and will be corrected or supplemented as required by Rule 26(e).

I. INDIVIDUALS LIKELY TO HAVE DISCOVERABLE INFORMATION

1. Brendan Ngehsi Newanforbi, 1455 Cat Tail Drive, Stockton, California 95204; telephone (209) 801-4442. Plaintiff has knowledge concerning his application, prior employment with FedEx-related operations, the conditional hiring process, the background screening and notices he received, the final adverse action, his qualifications, mitigation efforts, emotional distress, and damages.

2. Laurie Rosehill, Manager Compliance, Federal Express Corporation; current contact information through Defendant's counsel. FedEx identifies Ms. Rosehill as having knowledge of communication processes between First Advantage, FedEx, and job applicants. Plaintiff may also use her testimony concerning the transmission, receipt, review, and use of the background report and adverse-action communications.

3. Sharon Tokarczyk, Compliance and Regulatory Support Representative, Federal Express Corporation; current contact information through Defendant's counsel. FedEx identifies Ms. Tokarczyk as having knowledge of Defendant's hiring practices. Plaintiff may also use her testimony concerning screening criteria, adjudication practices, application review, and the basis for the challenged hiring decision.

4. The FedEx recruiter, hiring manager, human-resources personnel, compliance personnel, and final decisionmaker who handled or reviewed Plaintiff's 2025 application, conditional offer, background report, eligibility determination, or adverse action. Their identities and contact information are presently controlled by Defendant and have been requested in discovery. Plaintiff will supplement after they are identified.

5. The First Advantage custodian and personnel who prepared, transmitted, administered, or maintained Plaintiff's background-screening report and the related pre-adverse and final adverse-action notices. Their individual identities and current contact information are not presently known to Plaintiff and will be supplemented after discovery.

6. Custodians or representatives of Plaintiff's employers and prospective employers during the claimed loss period, solely concerning earnings, job searches, employment obtained, and mitigation. Plaintiff will identify specific custodians or witnesses if he may use their testimony beyond authenticating employment records.

II. DOCUMENTS, ESI, AND TANGIBLE THINGS

The following categories are located in Plaintiff's email account, electronic files, and personal records in Stockton, California, unless otherwise stated. Plaintiff will make nonprivileged responsive materials available for inspection and copying or produce them in electronic form. Identification of a category does not represent that every described item is presently in Plaintiff's possession.

- Plaintiff's FedEx application materials and communications concerning the 2025 hiring process, conditional offer, onboarding, and employment eligibility.

- The March 10, 2025 First Advantage/FedEx pre-adverse-action notification and related portal or email communications available to Plaintiff.

- The March 19, 2025 First Advantage/FedEx final adverse-action notification and related portal or email communications available to Plaintiff.

- Documents and communications concerning the First Advantage background report, Plaintiff's request for or attempted access to that report, and the expired report link. The complete report and associated audit data are believed to be in Defendant's or First Advantage's possession.

- Records concerning Plaintiff's prior employment or onboarding with FedEx or affiliated operations, to the extent available to Plaintiff; additional records are believed to be in Defendant's possession.

- Employment, earnings, tax, job-search, application, conditional-offer, and mitigation records that Plaintiff may use to establish economic loss or mitigation.

- Documents concerning Plaintiff's qualifications and employment history relevant to the position at issue.

- Nonprivileged contemporaneous communications and records concerning the effects of the challenged decision, including emotional distress and financial impact, if used to support damages.

- The pleadings, disclosures, discovery requests and responses, productions, deposition transcripts, court orders, and other nonprivileged litigation materials in this action that Plaintiff may use to support his claims.

III. COMPUTATION OF DAMAGES

Plaintiff's present computation is preliminary. The record reflects compensation beginning at $20.25 per hour for up to 20 hours per week. Defendant controls additional material inputs, including the anticipated start date, position classification, benefits, and complete hiring records. Plaintiff requested those facts in written discovery served October 6, 2026 and will supplement promptly after receiving them and completing his mitigation compilation.

1. Statutory damages under California Penal Code section 290.46(j)(4)(A): not less than $25,000 for the presently identified prohibited use, or actual damages, whichever is greater. Plaintiff will supplement if discovery establishes additional legally distinct prohibited uses.

2. Accrued lost wages: $20.25 per hour x 20 hours per week = $405 per week. From the March 19, 2025 final adverse action through October 9, 2026 (569 days, or approximately 81.2857 weeks), gross accrued wage loss is approximately $32,920.71, less interim earnings and other amounts properly attributable to mitigation. The amount continues to accrue at $405 per week, subject to proof, mitigation, and the appropriate legal cutoff.

3. Front pay: using a provisional two-year period, 104 weeks x $405 per week = $42,120, less interim earnings and other amounts properly attributable to mitigation. Plaintiff will supplement this period and calculation as the case schedule, discovery, and mitigation record develop.

4. Lost employment benefits: the value of employer-provided benefits Plaintiff would have received during the compensable period, less corresponding benefits obtained through mitigation. The plan terms and employer contribution data are presently controlled by Defendant and will be incorporated after production.

5. Emotional-distress and other noneconomic damages: Plaintiff presently estimates $100,000, subject to supplementation based on discovery and the nature, duration, and effects of the distress established through testimony and other admissible evidence. These damages are not susceptible to a precise mathematical calculation.

6. Punitive damages: an amount sufficient to punish and deter under California Civil Code section 3294, to be determined by the trier of fact based on the evidence of authorization, ratification, malice, oppression, and Defendant's financial condition. Plaintiff will provide a more specific computation if and when the necessary financial and decisionmaking evidence is obtained.

7. Recoverable litigation costs, pre- and post-judgment interest, equitable relief, restitution, and any other relief authorized by the operative pleadings and governing law, in amounts to be updated as incurred or determined.

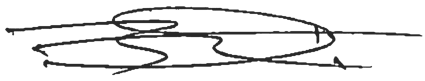

The presently estimated nonpunitive damages are approximately $175,040.71 before mitigation, consisting of $32,920.71 in accrued gross wage loss, $42,120 in provisional front pay, and $100,000 in noneconomic damages. Accrued wage loss continues at $405 per week. The statutory $25,000 minimum is disclosed as an alternative where section 290.46(j)(4)(A) requires the greater of actual damages or $25,000, and Plaintiff does not seek duplicative recovery. Benefits, punitive damages, recoverable costs, interest, restitution, and equitable relief remain additional or subject to later computation as permitted by law. This is a Rule 26 disclosure, not a settlement demand or a waiver of any remedy.

IV. INSURANCE AGREEMENTS

Plaintiff is not aware of and does not possess or control any insurance agreement under which an insurance business may be liable to satisfy all or part of a possible judgment against Plaintiff in this action or to indemnify or reimburse payments made to satisfy such a judgment.
