Your offer is one of the kindest acts that I've ever received in my entire life. I'm still alive in large part to you. I don't even know how to express my thanks. It has nothing to do with money, as I would pay you to take out your trash.
I don't know if it could work but it is a thought. What does your bond say?

Mike, Valentine's Day was great. I was more romantic than usual. That sounds like a great topic. If you drafted something then I think we can post it. Keep track of any hours you do some work. I have an interesting motion to perform on a civil case. If you want the details I can get them to you. Looking forward to getting you in her. We got a lot going on at the moment.

Sincerely,

Mike Maloof, Jr.

Mike I am sorry you feel the way you do. Upon reflection I can see where you are coming from, I became very thoughtless with my requests of you. I don't like to abuse or use my friends for my own profit. It really was my thought process to have you help with civil cases in the idea that someday you would want to make this a career and to discuss options moving forward. I know how smart you are and I thought you enjoyed doing the work.

I was simply giving you some work I thought you would take an interest in performing. If you want me to proceed on the diminished value case, then I am happy to do it. If not, I will file the dismissal today. I will pay the expenses you incurred in performing the work for my clients. I will here you out on the basis for your claim of unjust enrichment. I thought this was an unpaid internship and I valued our time talking together about a myriad of topics. I wish you had just told me that you felt the way you did in your more recent emails and the specific text you sent last Wednesday. I hate it, but I can't always read what others are thinking and your emails made me think about my requests. I don't think they were numerous or anything crazy, but I didn't express much appreciation when you performed the work. Some of this is just where we both are in our lives. I am playing fireman and you are putting your life back together.
I try my best and juggle a bunch of balls in the air and sometimes I take the easy road and ask others to help me on projects I am not familiar with and don't have a bunch of time to dedicate to doing.
I thought you wanted me to supervise your diminished value case and kept you posted on the activity of the case. I was the attorney of record and handling calls and conveying the messages sent from the two other attorneys and adjuster involved. You knew your case like the back of your hand and I thought you wanted to run point and me to simply make sure an attorney with some level of competence was overseeing the filings.
If you feel the way you do about the recent developments in our relationship then I will do what I think is fair and what I am capable of doing. I am here early this morning if you want to call and chat. The situation appears so soured that I think the best option is for us to part ways. If I am so off in my perceptions of what is going on in our relationship, I need to learn this civil stuff on my own anyway.
Just let me know if you are up and reading this now is a good time for a call. I have to go answer a calendar call in FUlton at 9:00 and I have another virtual hearing this afternoon. If you want it filed this morning then call and tell me or send a text.

Sincerely,

Mike Maloof, Jr.

Re: Letter Regarding Unpaid Wages, Ethical Concerns, and Impending Litigation

To: Michael Sullivan <msullivanjrlaw@gmail.com>

Mike,

I hope you enjoyed your birthday. I will make two different offers. We can do the binding arbitration with a high low or you can accept the [redacted] in the three installments [redacted] within 30 days of acceptance, [redacted] by October 31, 2024, and [redacted] by the end of March of 2025. Your allegations in your letter are your perception of the events and you are entitled to them.

For Clarification from my perspective: I was not trying to take advantage of you from my perception. I was asked by your mother to reach out and check on you early in 2022. She was worried about you being in your home under house arrest and your mental health. I cannot remember if we even discussed you working for me (I am pretty sure the thought came up but I just can't remember). I called you and discussed your circumstances and we made arrangements to help you get out of your home, and work with me. I offered payment of 10 dollars an hour at the outset to prevent this kind of rift and animosity. It was not brought to my attention the way you felt until right before Thanksgiving of last year 2023. I have tried to write you checks for work performed since. You have refused payment.

The painting of me as unethical towards you and a selfish human being is not something I take lightly or am in agreement.

I was asked by a mother to help her son who was struggling being stuck in his home on house arrest. She was concerned about your well being. I had always liked you and I truly wanted to help. I told your mother I would give you a call and we decided to see if we could get you out of that house via employment. I offered a paid internship and you said you wouldn't take money. I believe I said I prefer to pay people in order to prevent resentments, and truly it makes people feel a greater level of responsibility. You were not interested and seemed happy to just get out of the house.

As to the greed aspect i.e. free labor I pocketed profits from your hard work, that you believe was the motive for me employing you: I offered to pay what I have done on other internships (while I have had only two)10 dollars an hour. It was turned down by you not because you were asking for more but because you would not take the money. You went out of plan to the tune of around 4K on the Westlaw. It happened on two or three occasions and the amount is an estimate not 4K each time. You offered to pay and I refused. While I was frustrated I let it go and said just stop doing it. I believe I said there is no way I can take your money if I am not paying you.

You offered me over a million at one point to take your case. This is when you were in a particularly vulnerable position and the trust in me was something I did not take lightly, in your darkest hour in a desperate spot it would have been wrong to have taken it for a myriad of reasons, This is not what a greedy lawyer would do. Plus if I lost the case I would have been devastated. I refused it on two occasions, and said truthfully I could not take the emotional blow if I lost.

I did offer when I thought you had fired Don which I never advocated for you to do, and discouraged you from doing it. I was bombarded again by family members. I certainly did not ask for a million dollars, but I did not want you to go it alone. Also this is contrary to what Julia believed (she was not nasty but very unhappy with me for a minute). Her belief was based on a phone call I made asking if she felt Don was on top of the case, and doing a good job. This call was made to her after you were extremely frustrated with his performance and vented to me. You had then sent a joking communication firing him. I offered to reach out to your ex to see if I could help get her to work with your attorneys on your case. I was told not to do so. I fielded calls with your mom about concerns regarding you on several occasions. These were not easy. She loves you and cares about you. The same is true from Julia (only on a few occasions). I took calls from Don and Amanda. I was really trying to help you stay sane in a difficult time.

Ethics Concern:

I was asked by your mother; your attorney who is considered the best in the business, and a few other people (Julia, I think Amanda) to speak to you to encourage you to take the probation offer and I was not privy to the asymmetric information you possessed. You told me given what I knew at the time it was the right recommendation after it was over. I did not review the discovery. I was told bits and pieces about it from multiple parties. Specifically, you on many occasions. I told you to stick with the attorney you had at the time of the trial who had gotten the discovery. I just don't see this as unethical. I was not thinking of my wallet, but of your possible incarceration. It was a risk reward assessment and a fear you could go to prison. How would I have known the State was going to dump the case for certain and you were not happy with the defense that was going to be put forward. You told me you were not going to testify and I thought if she shows it will be tough. I have heard from many Defendants the other party isn't coming and then they do and it is a game changer.

As to Sutton I had read the hard copy and again your invoice didn't ask for money just gave me hours. I had not read the invoice, but if you had asked for compensation we were at the point I would have given it. I am not a mind reader.

If you want to take one of the proposed offers then let me know but don't contact me for reasons other than the proposals. No one has ever made allegations like this against me. So I promised I would respond to your letter I have now. As far as Sutton, if you had asked for payment I would have paid you for it. I had you in my office on one occasion earlier in the year and I was trying to write you a check for the Wooten Case and I believe another.

I have tried to pay you and turn this around since I found out your feelings which happened right after my return from my honeymoon. I have told you my mistake in this arrangement, but you had never communicated your frustrations to me until then. I found out your feelings with accusatory text messages right before Thanksgiving. I thought about your position and told you to not talk to me via accusatory texts. Once you simmered down I again tried to pay 15K at the end of 2023, not as full and final settlement but as an attempt to show I took it seriously and had some money to pay and it would have made good sense for both our tax purposes.

Your timeline fails to indicate the 4 years after you left our services you went with Ken Hodges and Jay Tom Morgan. They did not do a good job according to you (Not much argument from me). You asked what I would do if I found myself in your situation and I gave you what I thought were the best attorneys to handle the case. You took my advice and hired two of the best by reputation. I did not hear much until after your mother called me very concerned about your well being. It also makes it sound as if the employment was continuous and consistent. You vanished after the Ford case. You left to focus on your trial as you should have done so. You could not come to the office after certain comments were made to Sofia by your own choice not mine.

I did have a gap in an assistant. It truly started at the beginning of 2022. Gunner's father was sick in the hospital, my paralegal began to call in every week for over half her work days with fibromyalgia starting in January of 2022. I needed a secretary mainly to answer the phones and do the filings. I was reluctant to hire a secretary not out of greed but for fear I would make another bad hire. I had just gone through two individuals and didn't want to make another mistake. Sofia was hired part time in the middle or end of August 2022 her hiring was done for a couple of reasons. I knew her mother and she had worked for us before. The hire was made when you ghosted the firm. Ford proceeded and we did not hear from you for a while. I think the number of hours worked, especially on secretary matters, was not a huge amount. You did file documents and occasionally answered the phone, but I never called you my secretary but my law clerk.

I was not asking you to be a secretary. I believed you were better analytically. When you did this work it was very good, but you weren't coming in early to answer a phone and to be a secretary. You also were struggling with depression and having a hard time getting out of bed. You missed a lot of days. I spoke to help family concerns with several members. I also would not tell them information you did not want disseminated. I made it easier for your mother because I would say things that let her know you were just processing information, and physically alive and ok. When your dog Bow passed I tried my best to say what I knew to say in that kind of situation. There are no words that can fix this. It is just a process you must go through. When you wanted Gunner to throw me a bachelor party, you didn't show, but not only did you not show, you didn't answer the phone. I had to apologize to the guys that planned the party for me.

If you want to take one of the proposed offers then let me know but don't contact me for reasons other than the proposals. No one has ever made allegations like this against me. So I promised I would respond to your letter I have now. As far as Sutton, if you had asked for payment I would have paid you for it. I had you in my office on one occasion earlier in the year and I was trying to write you a check for the Wooten Case and I believe another. You have never asked instead you send me things like would you consider your representation of him as abandonment. Why did you not try and withdraw for payment? One of the reasons is that every time we try to withdraw for lack of payment, clients come in and beg for a payment plan, and the courts, because they are overwhelmed, don't sign the orders quickly. I knew Sutton's behavior was typical of many defendants. He wanted it to go away. He pulled the old ostrich defense as I knew he had money to pay he just couldn't believe this was happening. He then showed up to my office heavily intoxicated to go over his case. I had to give him water and get him an Uber or he got it I can't remember. His case is not on a pretrial calendar. We have gotten notice and I have plans on how to move forward. I have to work on two other pressing matters this week.

Since the outset of your frustration I have tried to figure something out. You just weren't sure how you wanted to do it. The high low was instigated by you and was a smart option when the business venture lost relevance. I just don't know this law and I should have been more engaging in creating a high low. I am struggling. If it makes you feel better this has put a strain on my relationship with Nanci. I don't want you to think I take this lightly and if it makes you feel better it has bothered me to my core. I know you feel betrayed, but I also feel betrayed. I did my best and I never asked you to work for free. I now get those weekend texts and texts right after my honeymoon that are very accusatory and your opinion. I never talked to you like that. When you made mistakes I communicated them to you and let it go.

As to taking advantage of you when you were in a bad place. I was just trying to help you get your head together. We talked at length about your case, and I gave you feedback. We laughed about a lot of different cases and the craziest world we have ever seen. I am sorry it got to this but a phone call saying hey can you pay for Sutton or lets determine a high low may have fixed the problem. I did say that resolution would create animosity.

I did think the business idea we had was a good idea. I am sorry you are pissed, but I can't read your mind and quite frankly the allegations have hurt me and I feel like I can't trust you. I didn't refuse to review discovery and I didn't cause the delay in your case. When I worked for you, I filed what you asked to preserve evidence and I tried to do what you asked of me before you went in a different direction. I hope you can put this behind you and resolve it amicably. You told me I would have to distance myself from you one day well before you were angry at me and threatening litigation. I guess I should have listened then. I hope you are in good health, and I am sorry you feel the way you do. Enjoy your week, and if you want to chat I would request two things first no jabs they don't do anyone any good. Second I have never recorded our conversations and ask for your assurances you are not going to do the same moving forward. We need to keep this to email only unless you ask for a call via email. Good luck moving forward in your life and I hope we can resolve this soon.

As to settlement, the terms would need to be binding. There were substantial gaps in your employment. Especially after the Ford immunity hearing.

Sincerely,

Mike Maloof, Jr.

Mike don't worry about the donuts very nice gesture by the way. There are few places in Decatur. We are looking forward to having you here. My legal assistant is out with some kind of medical issue they are trying to figure out. It is a little scary. Gunner will be here. It is going to be fun. We got a lot going on, and a lot of pretty interesting work stuff. I have a plea at 1:00 today and I think I have to go to Cobb late this afternoon, but I should be here most of the day. Look forward to seeing you. When you arrive just shot me a text and I will let you in the back. We are not open like normally yet so the front is locked. I will see you this morning.

Sincerely,

Mike,

I thought it would be prudent to set up a new gmail address to "firewall" communications related to your law practice from those that are personal:

- msullivanjrlaw@gmail.com is the best my creatively-challenged brain could come up with, but ...
- Obviously I want to steer clear of § 15-19-51, so if you have a better email address I might use, please let me know.

More pertinently, can you please share the DRAFT of the Cooley Motion with me please so I may (1) redline; or (2) create a separate working iteration (at your preference).

NB: Make sure you call Gunner "Numba One Gunna" next time you bump into him. It is a play off this old school song https://youtu.be/HBOUdDaBtGw

I dropped this guide into Excel ... was curious what the market looked like. I think this might be the most appropriate title, but I'm guessing.

Maloof Letter (Aug. 8, 2022)

Dear Mike:

I read your email this weekend, and I was disheartened. I know every day that lingers with no resolution in site is unbearable. I want you to know you are a great friend. Your actions here have been invaluable and are altruistic to me and my firm.

If you decide to go turn into custody, I will respect that decision. I think the end of the case is approaching and I don't want you to have to fight this from the inside of the jail. You are a good man. You have suffered from a terrible injustice. I cannot say I know what it would be like, but I know what feeling hopeless feels like and I know its discomforts.

I thought about it all day yesterday. I could not think of the words that would be persuasive to prevent you from taking the action. The only thing I can say is I am your friend, and I will do what is in my power to help you.

If you want me to become counsel of record, I would do it. I don't want to watch you in the pain you find yourself in at the moment.

My hopelessness with Alcoholism is what I am going to draw from in this letter. The only way my life got better is when I took positive action to address the issue. Helping others makes one feel good and gets them outside themselves. The very prison you can find yourself sometimes.

Help my clients and we got a lot of distractions for the next couple of months. Let's help Ford out of his case. Let's help Alford (as you have) and Allen the next two weeks. Let's spend this weekend making a trial notebook and force ourselves to read that book I always show you.

You have a lot to give this world. Your decision to turn into custody would fuck up your mindset that must be sharp for the trial that will eventually happen. If none of this is persuasive, then I will respect you as a person and friend. I am trying to think of a sense of purpose I can provide you. Just let me know what I can do.

Your Friend and Colleague,

Mike Maloof, Jr.

Fair enough, let me know what I can do to help. I will miss having you around and you know where to find me and if you want to do the leave and getting ready don't hesitate to let me know. You are my friend and I hate seeing you suffer.

Sincerely,

Mike Maloof

Mike nancia and I decided we wanted to go to Jackson Hole Wyoming for our trip we would do it on the Columbus Day Weekend. We would love to fly out October 6th in the evening and come back Columbus day on the 10th. If you want to do it pull the trigger, but certainly don't feel any obligation. I hope you are hanging in there and as always you are my friend and I miss having you around.

Very Truly Yours,

Mike Maloof, Jr.
